The main challenges for the Healthcare Industry: Research, Innovation, Sustainability

The 63th AFI Symposium on “The main challenges for the Healthcare Industry: Research, Innovation and Sustainability” will take place as usual at the Palacongressi of Rimini from 5th to 7th June 2024.

The Healthcare Industry is a crucial cornerstone of the Italian economy and aims to ensure the health and well-being of the population, while generating added value and jobs. This is an interdisciplinary, complex, and dynamic economic sector with a wide range of activities, such as research, development, production of medicines and medical devices, clinical trials, distribution, and marketing. From a business perspective, it is a very competitive sector, where innovation, built on sound scientific and technological bases, plays an essential role, as does the ability to sustain medium-long term investments. From a social and professional point of view, this sector offers equal opportunities to both men and women in all job roles, including top-management positions.

In this pivotal moment marked by the rise of artificial intelligence technologies and digital therapies, the healthcare sector will have to face numerous new challenges and opportunities in the near future. Besides the increasing demand for healthcare products and services, driven by an ageing population, we are faced with a growing need to integrate diverse scientific disciplines and foster a robust innovation culture, thus seizing this opportunity to contribute to sustainable development and environmental protection. The adoption of more efficient and environment-friendly technologies and production processes can significantly help this sector become more environmentally sustainable. Not only does this approach fulfil current needs, but can also become a reference framework for the benefit of all.

It is therefore essential that we continue to invest in research and development, encouraging collaboration between companies, universities, research centres and public institutions. Such efforts will not only create new talents, but also foster new innovation networks and the dissemination of best practices on both national and international scales.

This is the context in which the 63th AFI Symposium will take place with 19 Scientific Sessions, 1 Keynote Lecture (Sen. Elena Cattaneo) and many satellite events featuring eminent speakers from the industry, universities institutions and trade associations.

The Symposium will begin on Wednesday afternoon with a speech by the AFI President, Giorgio Bruno, followed by the scientific sessions, focusing on areas of significant interest. The Energy and Sustainability session will delve into the diverse facets of sustainability as applied to the pharmaceutical sector. The following sessions will be devoted to the Supply Chain, Packaging Materials and Digital Health, while the closing session on Start-ups aims to promote a culture that recognizes and promotes innovative ideas across this sector from research labs to market access.

On Thursday the morning session will start with the Keynote Lecture “There is no care without research” held by Sen. Elena Cattaneo. The next sessions will be on Clinical Research, focusing on “Innovation and Sustainability”, Quality, HTA, and Debistering, ending with the Piazza delle Donne.

The afternoon sessions will be on Environmental Risk Assessment focusing on the conventional approach and the prospects related to the new European directive, AFI-SITELF Pharmaceutical Sciences, Biotech, Pharmacovigilance, Medical Devices, Advertising and Medical and Scientific Information in the Era of Digital Technologies and CRF-SITELF.

Friday will start with a session on Parenterals and continue with a session on Innovation focused on Artificial Intelligence, Process Digitalization and 4.0 GAMP 5 Validation and Qualification 2nd edition. The Symposium will end with the sessions on APIs and Specialty Products.

As usual, the Poster session will allow participants to showcase the results of their projects.

GENERAL PROGRAMME

WEDNESDAY 5TH JUNE

THURSDAY 6TH JUNE- GALA DINNER AT GRAND HOTEL RIMINI

Luigi Cavenaghi Award

This Award was established by Dr Maria Luisa Nolli in memory of Dr Luigi Cavenaghi for young researchers and is given to the best poster presented at the Symposium.

POSTERS

The 63th AFI Symposium includes the presentation of posters about original research on topics that are relevant for the entire pharmaceutical supply chain, from chemically-synthesized drugs to biotech products to advanced therapies. The topics covered are design, development, innovative solutions in quality control and quality assurance, manufacturing, intellectual property protection, clinical trials, regulatory affairs and therapeutic use.

A Q&A session is scheduled to allow participants to discuss with the authors of the posters. The most interesting and innovative poster selected by a Committee of Experts appointed by AFI will be awarded a prize of € 1,000 established by Dr. Maria Luisa Nolli, co-founder of NCNbio, in memory of Dr. Luigi Cavenaghi, former president of the company. A certificate acknowledging their special scientific contribution will be awarded to the posters ranked second and third.

The award ceremony will take place in the evening on Thursday 6th June at the Grand Hotel Rimini, during the Gala Dinner.

The poster submission form and the abstract template must be received no later than 15th May 2024 (firm deadline) using the form that can be filled in at the following address:

<http://simposio.afiscientifica.it/eventi-e-formazione/poster-2024/>

For further information, please contact Dr. Giovanni Boccardi

AFI - Viale D. Ranzoni, 1 - 20149 Milan (Italy)
Ph. +39 02 4045361 - +39 02 4047375 - Fax +39 02 48717573
e-mail: segreteria@afiscientifica.it

The Poster Committee will review the abstracts received, verify that they come with a statement attesting that the research work has never been published before and approve or reject their eligibility for presentation at the Symposium.

The Authors of accepted posters will be notified and invited to register for the Symposium, along with any contributors; this registration is free of charge and mandatory for organisational purposes and grants access to the exhibition area, participation in the Workshops on Wednesday 5th June (morning), the Keynote Lectures (5th and 6th June), the Start-up Forum (5th June), the Women-in-Pharma Forum (6th June).

However, access to the Scientific Sessions is subject to a fee and requires the registration to the Symposium (fee for Public Bodies / Universities).

Accepted posters will remain on display in the lobby of the Sala dell'Arco until the end of the Symposium. Abstracts of accepted posters will be published in the Symposium Proceedings and be available online on the Symposium website.

On 6th June, from 12:30 to 14:30, one of the Authors must be present next to their poster to answer any questions from participants about their work.

RECIPHARM ITALIA AWARD

Recipharm Italia, a leading CDMO, promotes with Italian university the award for the best dissertation on NEW DRUG DELIVERY STRATEGIES AND NEW VECTORS FOR FUTURE TREATMENT CHALLENGES.

This is the 8th edition of the award, which was created to help advance the collaboration between universities and companies and to give a small yet tangible contribution to young students who are completing their studies.

As always, the two best dissertations selected by a panel of experts from universities and companies will receive a monetary prize and a certificate.

The award ceremony will take place in the evening on Thursday 6th June at the Grand Hotel Rimini, during the Gala Dinner.
